

Lou and Dangee

There once was a very young boy named Lou who loved swimming. He loved swimming so much that he even had a wooden bath in the garden just for him to swim in. But there was a terrifying, disgusting, Cyclops and he lived in a cave under the ocean, and every night he went over Lou's backyard and took a drink from his pool and said, "Yum this is some scrumptious water," and left no water behind. But he also ate anything that he laid his eyes on.

One day Lou went swimming in the ocean, "Ah, the water is so nice." he said calmly. A fisherman in a boat was nearby to take care of Lou. 250m underneath there was Dangee the Cyclops. Dangee got home late this morning and said, "Yummy the crunchy bones of chickens and sheep!" The Cyclops said with his mouth full. But as he stepped in the cave a rock trapped him in (good thing he could breathe underwater) and water started to come in and the Cyclops shouted, "Help, get me out!" Suddenly he burst through the cave entrance making a loud sonic boom sound which made the fisherman look down but he saw nothing. Good news for Dangee he had been covered in rocks so the fisherman didn't see anything.

Soon Dangee saw Lou but Lou didn't see Dangee. He was only looking at the blue sky and he was only listening at the seagulls, but Dangee didn't know that Lou had passed the sword training and he had an iron sword on his back. Soon Dangee was so quiet that not even giants that can hear everything, could hear him.

So Dangee was sneaking up on Lou until the fisherman shouted, "There's a thing in the water! What is that huge thing in the water!?" and he started getting to the shore because he was a coward. But Lou brought out his sword from his back and when the Cyclops came up he stabbed him in his guts and killed Dangee. Suddenly a god appeared out of nowhere and said, "I have to award you for killing the Cyclops. This beast was eating all of the animals in the country that you and your country men needed to survive. The reward will be that us gods will turn you into a god."

From that day on Lou was a god.

THE END